Approved by the Board of Directors
on 19 May 2022

INTRODUCTION

Juventus is a professional football club, listed on the Stock Exchange. With over a century of history, the club has succeeded in establishing itself as a leading team, both in Italy and internationally.

The fundamental goal of the Company is to give its supporters the greatest possible sporting satisfaction. This mission is to be pursued in a fair and sportsmanlike manner, combining the professional and business-related aspects of football with the ethical and social value of the sport, promoting conduct which is in keeping with club's tradition and worthy of the club's supporters and, more generally, of all sports enthusiasts.

Furthermore, Juventus strives to create value for its shareholders by promoting and increasing the value of its brand, maintaining a sports organisation of the highest technical level, and preparing and implementing projects designed to diversify the company's activities.

Juventus aspires to maintain and develop a relationship of trust with its "stakeholders", namely with those categories of individuals, groups or institutions whose interests are influenced by the direct and indirect effects of Juventus activity.

The Juventus Code of Ethics is based upon best practices and the applicable regulatory principles, guidelines and national and international documents on human resources, corporate social responsibility and corporate governance, including, by way of example, the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises and the main frameworks of the United Nations and the European Union.

1. CODE OF ETHICS USER GUIDE

Recipients of the Code of Ethics

- 1.1. The “Recipients” of the Code of Ethics are the Directors, members of the audit bodies, footballers, human resources of the sporting and non-sporting areas, as well as other collaborators, occasional or otherwise, of Juventus.
- 1.2. “Footballers”, for the purposes of this Code, means the players of the first teams, professional teams and youth teams whose members, even if minors, are able to understand the ethical and social value of their actions.
- 1.3. “Human Resources” means all employees, whether temporary or seconded, as well as semi-subordinate workers and other persons who are part of the Company’s workforce (for example: technical, health and medical staff) irrespective of the contractual form, the regulations of reference or whether or not they are members.
- 1.4. “Other collaborators” means, for example, spectators, agents and intermediaries, as well as other occasional collaborators of Juventus regardless of their professional category and the contractual form.
- 1.5. “Suppliers”, “Licensees”, commercial and corporate partners (hereafter also “Partners”) and the “Other parties” with whom Juventus maintains contractual relations are also required to comply with the Code of Ethics, as well as anyone undertaking activities in the name and on behalf of Juventus or under the control thereof, whether they are natural or legal persons.
- 1.6. The Recipients are obliged to observe the principles contained in the Code of Ethics, insofar as they apply, and will be sanctioned for any breach of its provisions. The sanctions depend on the type of relationship with Juventus.

Dissemination and knowledge of the Code of Ethics

- 1.7. The Code of Ethics is published on the Company’s website (www.juventus.com).
- 1.8. The Company ensures maximum dissemination and knowledge of the Code of Ethics at all levels of its organisation. All Recipients are required, by virtue of the employment relationship or the contract that binds them to Juventus, to comply with the Code.
- 1.9. In contractual relationships with the external parties referred to in Article 1.5, Juventus requires this Code of Ethics to be read and accepted by the counterparty unless the same has its own code of ethics, in which case Juventus and the counterparty shall mutually acknowledge that they have read their respective codes of conduct on condition that the principles contained in the Code of Ethics of the counterparty are compatible with those of Juventus.

2. GENERAL PRINCIPLES

Impartiality

- 2.1 Juventus rejects all forms of discrimination, including social, racism, xenophobia and intolerance.
- 2.2 Juventus undertakes to avoid any discrimination by its conduct and to respect, in relations with its stakeholders, differences in age, gender, sexual orientation and identity, ethnicity, religion, state of health, political and trade union affiliation, language or different skills.

Integrity

- 2.3 Within the scope of the activities carried out for Juventus, the Recipients are required to comply with the laws in force of each of the regulations within which the Company operates, the applicable sporting regulations and the Code of Ethics. In no event may the pursuit of the interests of Juventus be used to justify any breach of any of the above.
- 2.4 Juventus rejects any form of violence. All the activities of Juventus must be carried out with honesty, integrity and fairness in respect of the stakeholders involved and within a framework of sporting competitiveness and fair business practices.
- 2.5 In particular, Juventus expects the human resources and the footballers, in carrying out their duties, to behave in a manner that is ethically irreproachable, as well as legally and professionally appropriate, in order to strengthen mutual trust and consolidate the reputation of the Company, while avoiding any behaviour that could damage it. They must operate with integrity and probity in the relationships between each other, with the Directors and with the Juventus shareholders, with the competing companies, with the representatives of the sporting bodies and the public administrations and in general with all third parties, whether they are counterparties in negotiations or other stakeholders.

Correctness in the event of potential conflicts of interest

- 2.6 In the conduct of any Juventus activity or on behalf of Juventus, the Recipients must always avoid situations where they themselves are or even appear to be in conflict of interest with respect to other parties involved. The Recipients are required to report the occurrence of such situations.
- 2.7 The Recipients must not seek to derive any undue personal advantage, pursue interests other than Juventus's corporate purposes, or act contrary to the contractual and/or fiduciary duties that bind them to the Company.
- 2.8 There should be no conflicts of interest in conducting relationships with footballers, registered personnel, directors and representatives of other sporting clubs or sporting bodies, or with sporting intermediaries.
- 2.9 Particular attention must also be used in the case of transactions with related parties, which are also subject to specific regulations contained in the Company's specific internal procedures.

Transparency and completeness of information

- 2.10 The human resources of Juventus, in relations with third parties, whether they are negotiating counterparts or other stakeholders, are required to provide complete, transparent, understandable and accurate information, without prejudice to the protection of the confidentiality of information and personal data (see Articles 9 and 10) in such a way that, in establishing relations with the Company, third parties are able to make independent decisions while being aware of the interests involved, the alternatives and the relevant consequences. In particular, in the formulation of any contracts, Juventus takes care to specify for the contracting parties the behaviour to be maintained in all foreseen circumstances, in a clear and understandable way.

Sustainability and social impact

- 2.11 Football, through its values, can facilitate and contribute to a greater social impact particularly among the younger generations. Juventus recognises its role in society and, using an essential social component, represented by sport, contributes actively - in the framework proposed by the United Nations - to achieving the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and its 17 sustainable development goals (SDGs). Creating value and maintaining a relationship of trust with its stakeholders is a priority for Juventus, aware that this plays an important role in the community in which it operates. This is why the Company recognises the importance of integrating sustainability into its business, undertaking to report periodically on its social and environmental impact in the sustainability report.
- 2.12 Juventus is committed to implementing continuous improvements regarding environmental protection, minimising the environmental impact deriving from its social activities, and from the construction, maintenance and management of sites and property.
- 2.13 Within its corporate activities and in relations with third parties, Juventus undertakes to adopt responsible attitudes to safeguard the environment, acting in scrupulous compliance with the applicable regulations, as well as the limits defined by any authorisations and requirements received from the competent bodies.

3. HUMAN RESOURCES

- 3.1 Relations between colleagues, even at different hierarchical levels and in respect of the roles exercised, must always be based on the principles of civil coexistence, loyalty and fairness and must be carried out with mutual respect for the rights and freedom of individuals.
- 3.2 The managers of organisational structures and specific activities must exercise the powers connected to their role and/or the delegation received with objectivity and balance, remaining loyal to Juventus and its administrative bodies, and, at the same time, respecting the dignity of their collaborators of whose professional growth they must take proper care. With regard to the procedures for exercising the powers granted, reference must be made to the provisions of the Articles of Association and to the system of delegations and powers of attorney of the Company.
- 3.3 All human resources must cooperate fully in carrying out their duties by observing the provisions for the execution and for the regulation of the work given by their manager(s) and, in general, by the Company.

Human capital management policy

- 3.4 Juventus seeks to create a calm and pleasant working environment for everyone, in full respect of the law and of shared principles and ethical values.
- 3.5 Juventus ensures that employees behave and are treated with dignity and respect, within the framework of the provisions of the laws governing labour relations, the "Labour Code" adopted by the company and any other applicable internal law.

- 3.6 Within its organisation Juventus does not tolerate any form of discrimination, exploitation, harassment, bullying, isolation for personal or work reasons; situations of this nature will be pursued and punished with the termination of the employment or collaboration relationship.
- 3.7 Juventus shall not apply any disciplinary or contractual sanctions against employees or other collaborators who have legitimately refused to provide a work service that has been unduly requested of them by any person linked to the Company. Juventus protects those who report such situations in good faith and in detail, as specified in Article 17 below.
- 3.8 Juventus is opposed to “undeclared employment” and to child and underage labour, as well as to any other conduct involving exploitative labour or which offends the individual personality. All employees and co-workers are hired through standard contracts of employment. Human resources are duly and fully informed of the rights, duties and obligations arising from the contract.
- 3.9 Juventus promotes the cultural growth of its staff, enhancing their professionalism and personality by providing appropriate training tools.
- 3.10 The activities involving the selection of new human resources, as well as the management of remuneration policies and career paths, are informed by strictly meritocratic criteria.

Specific principles applicable to the Youth Sector

- 3.11 One of Juventus’s primary objectives is to promote positive values in sport for young people, in the knowledge that setting a good example to children and adolescents is the most immediate means of teaching mutual respect.
- 3.12 To this end, Juventus requires all persons who work in the youth sector to observe the principles, obligations and general prohibitions detailed above, as well as those described below.
- 3.13 Juventus undertakes to supervise the underage youth team players continuously, ensuring, within the limits of its responsibility, that they are never unsupervised.
- 3.14 Relations with young sportspeople must be maintained in an irreproachable manner in terms of ethical correctness.
- 3.15 Juventus does not tolerate any form of abuse of young athletes, be it psychological or physical.
- 3.16 The guidance and education of youth team players must be conducted on the basis of models that promote ethical and humanitarian principles in general, and which specifically promote fair play in sport.
- 3.17 Juventus demands the maximum commitment to preserving the mental and physical health of young people: to this end, it reiterates its dedication to preventing the practice of doping, along with any other behaviour that could even indirectly imply their abuse and/or commercial exploitation.
- 3.18 Juventus condemns the use of narcotics.
- 3.19 Juventus strives to ensure that technical motor skills, the culture of commitment, healthy competition, the positive concept of oneself and good social relationships are developed in training and competitions.

4. OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY

- 4.1 Juventus is committed to spreading and consolidating the culture of occupational health and safety, developing awareness of the dangers and risks involved, promoting responsible behaviour on the part of Human Resources and working to preserve, in particular with preventive actions, the health and safety of workers.
- 4.2 The company's business activities are performed in compliance with the laws in force on occupational health and safety. In particular, the management of the "safety system" is based on the following principles:
- assessing and managing risk, including risks that cannot be avoided;
 - combating risks at their source;
 - adapting the working environment to the people within it, particularly with regard to the design of workstations and the selection of tools and work methods;
 - taking account of technical developments;
 - replacing dangerous items and practices with non-dangerous or less dangerous alternatives;
 - planning prevention with coherent actions that integrate technology, work organisation, working conditions, social relationships and the influence of work environment factors;
 - giving the utmost priority to collective protective measures as opposed to personal protective measures;
 - providing workers with adequate instructions.
- 4.3 Juventus also undertakes, within the limits of its duties and responsibilities, to ensure the safety of the public accessing its facilities for sporting entertainment.

5. RELATIONSHIPS WITH THE PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

- 5.1 The human resources of Juventus must be familiar with and respect, where applicable, the guidelines issued by the Company with regard to relationships and fulfilments with the Public Administration, as well as the guidelines on gifts and donations. These guidelines must be applied across all areas in which Juventus is active and where the company has relations with public administration bodies and representatives thereof. In particular:
- with regard to requests addressed to the Public Administration for the provision of measures relating to Company activities;
 - on all occasions involving contact with parties engaged in carrying out inspections and visits at Juventus offices, in order to verify compliance with legal provisions and/or requirements;
 - on all occasions involving contact with public administration bodies for institutional, commercial or supply reasons;
 - when fulfilling obligations or requirements of the Public Administration.
- 5.2 Juventus behaves correctly and transparently in the conduct of negotiations and dealings with the Public Administration, as well as in the execution of any legal fulfilments or requirements dictated by the same.

- 5.3 Juventus's relations with civil servants (including clerks of public authorities – regardless of whether these are employees of the state or otherwise – and public service agents) are based on transparency, trust and correctness: Juventus does not wish to create any suspicion of wishing to influence those persons unduly in order to obtain benefits by illegal means.
- 5.4 Juventus condemns any behaviour that could constitute an act of bribery even in relation to private individuals, for which reference should be made to Article 7.6 below. Any attempted extortion, bribery or inducement to provide an undue benefit by a public official or a public service representative must be reported without delay.
- 5.5 Recipients of the Code of Ethics must disclose any business relationships or economic activities undertaken in a personal capacity with public officials.
- 5.6 In light of the above, no Recipient may:
- attempt to gain improper influence over the decisions of the various administrations concerned, with particular regard to officials who negotiate or make decisions on behalf of those administrations;
 - offer, promise or grant money, goods, favourable conditions or other undue advantages, in any form, directly or indirectly, to anyone (regardless of whether the individual in question is a director, officer or employee of a public authority or a private individual in charge of or employed in public services, or directly related or related by marriage, cohabiting or in any other way associated with such an individual), in view of this person performing an official act, or exert undue influence on a decision in order to promote or favour the interests of the company, even as a result of illicit pressure or persuasion from the beneficiary of such an act or decision. Human resources are permitted to offer free gifts and donations for commercial use of modest value in accordance with the procedure on "Gifts and donations";
 - send false or manipulated documents, attest to non-existent requirements or provide guarantees that do not correspond to the truth;
 - unduly procure any type of gain (licences, authorisations, reductions or exemption from charges, including social security contributions etc.) using means that are fraudulent or deceitful (for example, the submission of false documents or certifying facts that are untrue);
 - perform economic activities, assign professional roles, give or promise gifts, cash or other benefits to civil servants or public authority employees involved in administrative proceedings that may result in benefits for Juventus;
 - modify in any way the function of an IT or online system of a public authority or third party system or unlawfully intervene in any manner on data, information or programmes contained in any of the aforementioned systems;
 - unlawfully receive contributions, funding, subsidised loans or other disbursements of any nature, granted or paid by public authorities, through the use or submission of false or untruthful documents, or through the omission of information;
 - use contributions, subsidies or funding designated for public works or perform activities in the public interest for purposes other than those for which the same were granted;
 - illegally exchange information on bids with participants of any tenders or public procedures.
- 5.7 It is an infringement of Juventus's company policy to adopt conduct that is considered a bribery offence, including that which takes place in foreign countries where such conduct is not punished or otherwise prohibited.

- 5.8 In general terms, relationships with the Public Administration on behalf of Juventus must be managed by delegated or duly authorised parties.
- 5.9 Juventus operates in compliance with the law and encourages, within its scope of responsibility, the correct administration of justice.
- 5.10 In carrying out its business, Juventus operates lawfully and correctly by cooperating with the judicial authorities, law enforcement agencies and any public official who has powers of inspection and carries out investigations against it.
- 5.11 In advance of judicial proceedings, assessments or inspections by a public authority or supervisory authority, it is prohibited for any employee to destroy or modify records, minutes, accounting entries or any other type of document, or to lie or make false statements to the aforementioned competent authorities.
- 5.12 No one may try to persuade others to provide false or misleading information to the competent authorities.
- 5.13 No one may undertake economic activities, grant professional appointments, give or promise gifts, money or other benefits to those who carry out inspections and inspections, or to the competent authorities.

6. CONTRIBUTIONS FOR POLITICAL PURPOSES

- 6.1 These contributions require the prior approval of the Board of Directors of the Company and must be provided within the limits and in the forms envisaged by the applicable regulations.

7. RELATIONSHIPS WITH SUPPLIERS, LICENSEES, PARTNERS AND OTHER CONTRACTUAL COUNTERPARTIES

- 7.1 Juventus establishes relationships with suppliers, licensees and partners exclusively on the basis of criteria of trust, quality, competitiveness, professionalism and respect for market dynamics.
- 7.2 In particular, Juventus strives to select Suppliers and Licensees based on evaluation criteria that include, in addition to the quality and affordability of the offering, aspects such as reputation, reliability, professionalism, efficiency and sustainability, so as to allow for the establishment of a solid and lasting fiduciary relationship. Juventus avoids agreements with suppliers of dubious reputation that may not reflect the values expressed in this Code of Ethics in line with the principles of the Global Compact promoted by the UN, such as respect for the environment, working conditions, human rights and the principles of legality, respect for competition and the fight against corruption.
- 7.3 The same principles are adopted in the evaluation of Partners, which are required to share the values of this Code of Ethics, also to safeguard the reputation of the Juventus brand and company.
- 7.4 Juventus expects that the Suppliers, Licensees and Partners will not receive any undue pressure to perform services not envisaged contractually.
- 7.5 When requesting compliance with this Code of Ethics insofar as it is applicable to them (see Article 1.9), Juventus expects conduct from Suppliers, Licensees, Partners and other parties that complies with the principles contained herein. Any contrasting conduct may be considered a serious breach of the duties of correctness and good faith in executing the contract with Juventus, damaging the relationship of trust and constituting just cause for termination of the contract itself.

- 7.6 No Recipient of this Code of Ethics may promise or grant money, assets in kind, facilities or other benefits, directly or indirectly and in any form, to any individual representing a counterparty of Juventus (whether a director, general manager, manager or employee of a private company, or even a statutory auditor or liquidator) in order to guide a decision or to influence the performance of deeds or the conclusion of commercial agreements or, in general, to promote or favour the interests of Juventus or to damage a competitor. Free gifts and donations for commercial use of modest value are permitted in accordance with the procedure on “Gifts and donations”.

8. TRANSPARENCY OF ACCOUNTING AND INTERNAL CONTROLS

Corporate communications and accounting records

- 8.1 The principles of transparency in accounting are based on the truthfulness, accuracy and completeness of the basic information pertaining to the relevant accounting records. The business functions involved are required to take action so that the management facts are represented correctly and promptly in the accounts.
- 8.2 Supporting documentation is retained in the records for each transaction which allows for: (i) simple accounts recording; (ii) the identification of authorisation levels; (iii) the careful reconstruction of the transaction, also to reduce the probability of errors of interpretation.
- 8.3 Each accounting record must accurately reflect what appears on the original documentation. It is the task of the company functions involved to ensure that the documentation is easily traceable and ordered according to logical criteria.

Internal controls

- 8.4 It is the policy of Juventus to raise awareness at all levels of the need for control over activities, characterised by an awareness of the internal control procedures and the positive effects thereof in improving efficiency.
- 8.5 Internal controls are all those tools that are necessary or useful for directing, managing and verifying the activities of the Company with the aim of ensuring the credibility, accuracy, reliability and timeliness of the information provided to the corporate bodies and the market, the safeguarding of company assets, the effectiveness of company processes, compliance with laws and regulations as well as with the Articles of Association and internal procedures.
- 8.6 The responsibility for implementing an effective internal control and risk management system concerns, in various guises, every level of the organisational structure; consequently the directors, members of the audit bodies and all the human resources, each within their own function, must contribute to the definition, operation and monitoring of the internal control and risk management system.

9. COMPANY COMMUNICATION AND INFORMATION CONFIDENTIALITY

- 9.1 Internal and external company communications must be clear, precise and truthful in order to avoid inaccurate news and information being made public or situations entailing liability of any kind for the company being created.
- 9.2 To protect the reputation of the Company, the value of the brand and the confidentiality of information, any disclosures to the media and the public of any information relating to Juventus are managed exclusively by the spokespersons and the organisational structures that are expressly responsible: the remaining Recipients must refrain from any such communications.

with or could be associated with Juventus.

- 9.5 Confidential information and documents, work projects and know-how must be stored and protected in an appropriate and continuous manner both with respect to third parties and to colleagues who are not directly concerned with them. Those who, for reasons related to work, have access to them must, in any case, follow the instructions and procedures laid down by the company.
- 9.6 In the event that third parties, deliberately and/or fraudulently, seek to obtain confidential information from a Recipient of this Code of Ethics, the latter must promptly notify his/her superiors within the organisation.

10. PERSONAL DATA PROTECTION

- 10.1 Juventus adopts organisational and security measures for the correct processing of personal data in its possession, in compliance with applicable European and national legislation.

12. COLLECTIONS AND PAYMENTS

- 12.1 Juventus exercises its business in full compliance with current anti-money laundering regulations, where applicable, and the provisions issued by the competent authorities.
- 12.2 To that end, the human resources must operate in compliance with company procedures, and avoid carrying out any transactions which are suspicious in terms of fairness and transparency. In particular, the available information concerning active and passive counterparties (suppliers, partners, other collaborators) must be verified in advance in order to ascertain their respectability and the legitimacy of their activity; in addition, credit cards or payment cards or any similar document that authorises the withdrawal of cash or the purchase of goods or performance of services or in any case any other payment instrument other than cash must not be unduly used, not being their holders.

- 12.3 The counterparties of Juventus also undertake to operate in such a way as to avoid any involvement in transactions that may also be potentially likely to promote the laundering of money deriving from illicit or criminal activities.
- 12.4 With specific reference to traceability and the storage of records, the Recipients must observe the following recommendations:
- all payments and other money transfers made by or to the Company may not be made in cash and bearer passbooks or any other means considered equivalent to cash must not be used, with the exception of ticket sales activities for sporting events, for access to the Museum and Stadium Tour and for the purchase of material available at Company official stores;

- 13.4 In all cases, documents regarding the activities of the Company, company equipment, work tools and all other assets, whether tangible or intangible, made available and/or sold, therein including tickets to sporting events, by the same must be used exclusively to achieve the purposes of the Company and in the manner established by it. They may not be used for personal purposes or transferred or made available, even temporarily, to third parties.
